This year we are excited to offer Classic Assorted Truffles by Seattle Chocolate

Message from the President

Welcome to 2021! I know a lot of us have been eagerly awaiting the end of 2020 and are glad to see it in the rear-view mirror. 2020 brought us loss and hardship. We suffered physically and mentally, lost jobs, lost loved ones, and were not able to be at their bedsides in their final moments. While 2020 was a tough year, it also brought out the best in us. It showed us what we can achieve in desperate times. I am very proud of how our congregation has stepped up over the past year. We continue to offer pastoral care to those in need. Volunteers have reached out to members, by phone and by Zoom. We have provided meals to congregants and the greater community. We have hosted needs drives and blood drives. And you, our community, have shown up for all of it.

While we are now hopeful that the pandemic has an end in sight, we must plan for a two-pronged approach as some will begin to feel comfortable out in public while others will not. We need to maintain our building, yet also make sure we have the necessary technology for those who will continue to be virtual. We will assist our congregation, and the community at large. And we need to recognize that the economic ramifications of 2020 will have a long-lasting effect on many of our families. As we move into 2021, we will have new types of challenges and we must come together to support our congregation and its needs.

On March 14th we will gather, virtually, to recognize a special group within our community, our frontline workers. Herzl-Ner Tamid has produced many front-line workers and we are excited to celebrate them. We hope you will join us at this event. While they continue in their roles, we at HNT work to fulfill our mission. Please donate to our Legacy Fundraiser so that we can evolve and grow during these trying times.

Thank you,

Ilyse Wagner
HNT President

2021 Annual Legacy Fundraiser

Save the date: Sunday evening, March 14, 2021

Meeting the Moment: Honoring Frontline Workers Among Us

Calling all frontline workers and their families connected to HNT!

This year's fundraiser will honor those among us who have put the health, safety, and wellbeing of the greater community first. Being a frontline worker, or the family member of one, takes enormous sacrifice and faith that we and our loved ones will come home healthy and safe at the end of each day. We at HNT want to pay tribute to the brave men and women whose work each day leaves a proud legacy to follow.

If you are a frontline worker, or the parent, grandparent, spouse, child, sibling, aunt, or uncle of a frontline worker, please fill in the quick form at h-nt.org/frontline.

A New Year...A New Challenge

Call it a New Year's Resolution if you want, but we have a challenge for you, and everyone at HNT!

From (secular) New Year's Day (January 1st, 2020) to Jewish New Year's Eve (Erev Rosh Hashanah -September 6th, 2021) there are 248 days!

There are also 248 POSITIVE Mitzvot out of the 613 commanded.

That's 248 opportunities to make someone's day better (examples below).

We challenge each of you to do at least one mitzvah to help someone in our greater community.

Something that makes someone else's life better; something that might be outside your comfort zone but makes a big impact to someone else.

HERE ARE SOME EXAMPLES, OBSERVED JUST RECENTLY:

A meal delivered to a neighbor who lives alone.... Bags of seasonal needs were made by a family to give out to the homeless... Monthly financial help to a family in need... Toys delivered to a hotel for quarantined families who have little entertainment... Weekly calls to acquaintances who have been struggling... Offered to get groceries for a neighbor in need who doesn't have the option of picking their own produce... Offered to walk the dog on a rainy day for a neighbor who might find that hard... Take out the trash cans of a neighbor on a winter day.... Committed to helping with specific essential needs of families identified by the public school... Signed up to help with a shelter meal and to do so each month... Dropped cookies at the front door of a home with a chronically ill member.... Donated to a charity the amount they would have spent on having a birthday celebration or a date night out... Bought the staff at their local take-out place and post office gifts or cards to say thanks...

THIS CHALLENGE WILL HELP REMIND US OF THE IMPACT OF A SINGLE KIND GESTURE.

When you have done your mitzvah or your act worth "menshioning"...submit the details here:

<https://hnt.wufoo.com/forms/challenge-248/> or leave a voicemail at 206-232-8555 ext.200 with your name (if you are comfortable) and a brief description of your action.

Why are we doing a challenge like this, when there are so many other things to worry about right now?

Because kindness, affirmation, and compassion are contagious, and we want them to go VIRAL!

Imagine each month, a listing of such acts and a cumulative accounting at Rosh Hashanah of how we at HNT, a caring community, have become super spreaders of acts of loving kindness.

This challenged has been issued by the HNT Clergy, HNT Staff, and HNT Executive Board, and Board of Directors.

Will you join us, and sign on this this challenge?

Rabbi Jacob Herber

A Message from Rabbi Jacob Herber

God, Nature and You ...

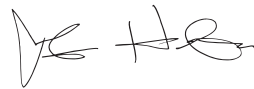

In the creation narrative of Sefer Bereshit, the Book of Genesis, we're told that Adam's mission is "l'avodah u'leshmorah haaretz" – to serve and guard the earth. From the very beginning, human beings are given the responsibility to actively care for the natural world around us. This God-given task is holy, sacred work. Rabbi Meir felt so strongly about the human connection with God's creation that he suggested we recite one hundred blessings a day. He believed that by reciting blessings over the food we eat and the natural phenomena we encounter we will become more aware of the spiritual component of the natural world, and be more likely to take part in caring for it. As the Midrash teaches, "See My works, how fine and excellent they are! All that I have created, for you have I created it. Consider this and do not destroy and desolate My world, for if you corrupt it, there is no one to set it right after you" (Exodus Rabbah 7:13). God created the world for us as a Divine gift and we have the responsibility to make the choice whether to preserve it or forsake it. Those of us who live here in the Pacific Northwest are fortunate to recognize on a daily basis – even during this current rainy season – that we live in one of the most beautiful parts of the country, if not the world. What might not be as evident is the role we need to play to protect this God-given gift.

There is also a spiritual benefit to caring for the environment. Rabbi Samson Raphael Hirsch once wrote that caring for the natural world will help us realize that there is "one glorious chain of love, of giving and receiving, [which] unites all living beings." In other words, the true essence of the Shema and our belief in monotheism is that there is something beyond us that links us all. This religious value can be discovered and observed when we care for other living organisms. Every morning in our prayers we praise God as "the One who, in goodness, renews the work of creation daily." We affirm that God is the active provider of the bounties of nature and is present at all times and in all things. By participating in the preservation of nature we spiritually uplift ourselves in the process.

Judaism has many commandments that mandate the preservation of the natural world. There is, for example, the mitzvah of Tza'ar ba'alei hayim, kindness to animals. The Talmud teaches that the true test of kindness is not how one treats other human beings but how one treats animals, over which one has ultimate authority. Another commandment, Bal Tashhit, proscribes against waste. Needless destruction, even for convenience, is an affront to God. We're commanded to do our best to not waste natural resources and to oppose corporate and governmental policies that promote needless waste and that fail to protect our environment. At home, this can mean recycling and giving away items we no longer need to others who can use them. To destroy something that can be used by another is considered a kind of theft. Reducing our reliance on natural resources like gas, oil, and water is also important. We can remember not to let the water run while we wash our dishes or brush our teeth. We can program our thermostat so that it's only on when we need it. As Rabbi Ellen Bernstein, my friend and founder of Shomrei Adamah (Keepers of the Earth), the very first national Jewish environmental organization, has written our world is a gift that requires our safeguarding: "We are called to la'avod, serve, and l'shmor, keep the land: to serve the land as we would serve God, and to keep it free from corruption. My tradition teaches that the land is a gift from God and the gift is conditional. If we do not care for the gift, we lose the gift."

The latter half of this month begins the Hebrew month of Shevat. It's a month often associated with environmentalism because it features Tu B'Shvat, the Jewish holiday of trees. Perhaps in honor of Tu B'Shvat each of us can adopt a new practice in our life that furthers our commitment to the Jewish value of preserving the natural world. If this pandemic has reminded us of anything, it's that we shouldn't take anything for granted; not our health, not our loved ones, not our jobs, not our homes, not even a roll of toilet paper. But most of all, it's made us aware of our connection to the natural world in which we live, and the need to do our part to keep that world in balance. It's nature, after all, that's helped us keep our sanity during these many months of isolation. Let's all strive to be shomrei adamah, guardians of the earth. Let's remember to do what we can to protect and to preserve it!

Rabbi Jay Rosenbaum

Two Paths to One God: Jews and Christians Exploring Holy Difference with Reverend Elizabeth Riley and Rabbi Jay Rosenbaum

Fifty years ago, the Christian world revolutionized its relationship with the Jewish people by rejecting the teaching of contempt, the belief that Jews were to be blamed for the death of Jesus. In our age of polarization, the profound transformation of Jewish-Christian relations can serve as a model for all of us.

- What is the work we still have to do to create a more compassionate relationship?
- How can a deepening understanding between Jews and Christians create opportunities for us to work together to build a better world?

Join us for this thought-provoking series!

Where: Virtually on the SJCC website

Time: Five Wednesday evenings, 7-8:45pm

Dates: January 13, 20, 27, Feb. 3, 10 of 2021

- How did this great change come about?
- What led to the teaching of contempt in the first place?
- What are common misconceptions Christians and Jews have of each other?

A Message from Director of Education Dr. Eliyahu Krigel, CJE

A Dvar

"To remain silent and indifferent is the greatest sin of all."

—ELIE WIESEL (1928–2016)

DR. ELIYAHU KRIGEL

Elie Wiesel's quote above is a reminder to always stand up for what is right and true. Wiesel not only spoke up against the injustices of the Holocaust, but he was also an advocate who helped support Soviet Jews, Jews in Ethiopia, and people around the world facing discrimination and racism. Wiesel's unwavering commitment to be an upstander serves as a great source of inspiration in this time when racial tension is exacerbated in many communities due to the pandemic. Speaking up when something isn't right is a foundational core Jewish value. Hatred and bigotry only prevail when we are silent and indifferent. As people of the book, Jews have always been at the forefront of promoting justice and combating injustice. We know what it's like to be the stranger because we were strangers in Egypt.

Unfortunately, I experienced an antisemitic incident around Thanksgiving at a local business establishment. Instead of remaining silent, I spoke up and voiced my concern. Rather than not saying something, I used the challenging situation of the racist incident I experienced to serve as fuel and motivation for me to speak up. You can do the same in this secular new year if you witness injustice or racism. I certainly thought about not speaking up after my encounter with the globe I describe in the link below. No one likes the feeling of being crossed out and ignored. In the end, however, remaining silent wasn't an option and should never be an option. We are all on this planet together. We must continue to find ways to be seen, heard, and loved! Check out the article I wrote about my recent encounter with racism by clicking the link below:

<https://tinyurl.com/yxdemm5c>

In this secular new year during these tumultuous times we find ourselves in, may your cup overflow with good health, joy, and support. With gratitude for your engagement and involvement, and blessings of peace and safety for all!
